28 Seek Seven County Offices

19 Republicans, 11 Democrats to be Voted on April 9

That twenty-eight aspirants for county office have filed petitions for the inclusion of their names on the primary election ballot to be used April 9 was revealed Wednesday by Jay B. Morse, county clerk.

Seven county offices are to be nominated at the primaries with names to be submitted for County Judge, County Clerk, Probate Judge, Probate Clerk, County Treasurer, Sheriff and County Superintendent of Schools. In addition, elections of the Republican and Democratic parties will nominate three representatives to the Illinois General Assembly, Congressman from the 10th Dist. and precinct committeemen.

The keenest battle from the standpoint of entries will be the race for Probate Judge with five republican entries including Charles E. Jack, Clarence W. Diver, Ray E. Thomas, Waukegan attorneys and Willis A. Overholzer, Libertyville attorney. All these men are well known throughout the county and this race will provide some real competition, according to political observers.

Democratic entrants for the office include Charles Noll, Waukegan real estate man and Stewart Reed Brown of Lake Bluff.

Herman Litchfield, Clarence Brown, Minard E. Hulse and John R. Bills, all of Waukegan have filed for the county judgeship. Litchfield will be remembered by local voters for the campaign made for the same office four years ago against Judge Perry L. Persons.

Three For Sheriff

Three republican petitions for the sheriff's office have been filed. Thos. E. Kennedy, chief deputy under Atkinson and a former sheriff, Jutis H. Depke, also a deputy sheriff and Clayton Hamlin of Lake Villa have all signified intentions to run.

Kennedy has served law enforcement bodies in Lake County for more than twenty-five years and is a graduate of the FBI school for police officers. Hamlin has long been associated with the Illinois state police and is well versed in police work. He resigned his captaincy in the state police early this spring in order to devote his time to the campaign.

Among democratic candidates for the sheriff nomination are Chas. R. Rouse, republican who bolted the party after being dismissed from the sheriff's office for "daring to announce his intention to run" according to a statement released by him several weeks ago, Michael Dyer and Len Dibble, of Zion.

Jay B. Morse, incumbent, filed the only republican petition for re-election as county clerk. Russ Alford, recently discharged from the U. S. Merchant Marine, has filed for the democratic nomination.

The office of Probate clerk has only two petitions with Allen J. Nelson, incumbent, filing on the republican ticket and Joe S. Kerpan, Benton township, on the democratic.

Lew A. Hendee will oppose Guy O. Lunn in the republican race for nomination as candidate for the county treasurership. Lunn, who has been employed as chief clerk in the office under Gustaf H. Fredbeck, and has had twelve years experience in the office, is believed to be a sure winner in the race as he evidently has strong support. Hendee, who held county office for a half century or more has not entered the political arena since his defeat by Russ Alford for the County clerkship in 1934. Anthony J. Griggins, Waukegan, has filed on the democratic ticket.

Marguerite M. Zimmer, Aptakisic, will oppose the veteran W. C. Petty for the county superintendent of schools nomination. Miss Zimmer is a former employee of the county superintendent's office and is said to be well qualified for the job, however, Petty, who has held the office for sixteen years has been a strong republican vote-getter for many years and is seen as an almost certain nominee. Since no democratic petition was filed nomination means almost certain election in the fall.

Three For General Assembly
Since the senatorial committee has again certified two republican and one democratic representative, as has been the custom for many years, Tom Bolger, of McHenry, is virtually certain of re-election, as no other democrat has filed for the job. Nick Keller and Harold D. Kelsey, incumbents, will fight it out with Charles E. Twaddell, Libertyville, for the two republican nominations.

Precinct Committeemen
Jack Wolff will oppose Louis Pregezer for the precinct committeemanship in Antech precinct 1. Laurel D. Powles and Art Gardiner will not be opposed in Antioch 2 and 3 respectively. Mrs. Vene Cermak has filed for committeeman in Antioch

State Civil Service Preference For Disabled Vets, Wives

Unmarried widows of veterans who died in service and wives of disabled veterans have veterans' preference in state civil service.

In open competitive examinations, those found eligible for veterans' preference are placed at the head of the list of eligibles, provided they pass the Illinois Civil Service examination. In promotional examinations they are given one point for each six months of war-time service (up to 48 months), which is added to their final average.

Proof of relationship and disability or death of the veteran in service must be submitted.

Service Officer Arthur F. Reutlinger of the Illinois Veterans' Commission, who has offices at American Legion Home, 501 W. Washington St., Waukegan, Ill., will assist in preparation of the applications and the proof necessary to establish veterans' preference.

V. F. W. Will Sponsor Dance February 16

Local Post Seeks To Raise Funds For Home

Sequoia Post Veterans of Foreign Wars will sponsor a dance on Feb. 16, the anniversary of the sinking of the Maine, according to Dr. L. John Zimmerman, commander of the post. The affair will be held at the Pasadena Gardens, one mile north of Antioch, and plans are being made to accommodate a large crowd.

A commemorative dance on the anniversary of the historic sinking of the Maine is one of the annual affairs promoted by most posts of the V. F. W. throughout the United States and the local post intends to make this an annual affair in the future.

An attractive program is being produced for the dance and committees are now canvassing merchants and business people throughout the region for help with the project. All funds raised through this method and of the dance will be used to swell the fund currently being raised to provide a home for the post. Several properties are now being investigated by the organization with an eye to either purchasing a building or securing land upon which to build.

Burt Mahoney, chairman for the dance, has labeled the affair a "cabaret dance" and said today that no effort would be spared to make the evening one of gaiety, amusement and real fun.

WILL IT COME TO THIS?

March of Dimes Campaign To Be Ended Saturday

That the "March of Dimes" campaign here will be extended to continue until Saturday, Feb. 2, was revealed today by Postmaster Roy I. Kufalk, local chairman.

Kufalk said that through the shortage of film, the Antioch theatre had been unable to secure the trailer, which was shown in theatres throughout the United States in an effort to secure contributions from theatre patrons for the drive. Manager Fred Swanson of the Antioch theatre was, however, able to secure the film in time to start the showing on Wednesday of this week and the film will be shown through Saturday at the theatre. Prospects for meeting last year's total of $276.60 were dim, according to Kufalk, because of failure to secure the film.

Receipts at the Lakes theatre were more than 25% above those of last year, and Kufalk said that he was highly pleased by the co-operation afforded by Bill Lemke, manager of the theatre. The special film was shown for seven nights during the drive and the response by patrons was excellent.

Substantial donations to the drive have been made by the Antioch Lions Club, the Antioch Home Bureau and many individuals.

Lions Carnival Dates Set For Aug. 29 - Sept. 1

To Sign Contract With Skinner Amusement Co.

Tentative dates for the Annual Lions club carnival for August 29, 30, 31 and Sept. 1 were set at a dinner meeting held Monday evening at Pregezer's resort. A committee has been appointed to make arrangements with the Skinner Amusement company to provide for rides and other amusements.

An encouraging report on the progress of the Victory Clothing drive was made by Chairman J. P. Miller, who told of arrangements which have been made for the collection of the clothing.

The co-operation of local churches and schools has been secured and the village truck will be used to make the collections.

A twenty-five dollar contribution to the "March of Dimes" was made to Postmaster Kufalk, chairman of the drive.

The Wednesday closing of Antioch stores and business places was discussed at considerable length. Dr. Keefe, chairman of the drive, made a report on the closing day. Parts of the minutes of the meeting which concern the Wednesday closing follow:

"Dr. Keefe reported that the Closing Day plan was progressing just about as expected. A number of businessmen have asked to have the names of those who close on Wednesday published in the papers so their customers will be informed. The legality of such publicity was questioned but since there is no compulsion about a merchant closing it was decided that there was nothing illegal about it. The question of what was behind the closing movement and the implication that unions were trying to force business to close brought out considerable discussion. A representative union member pointed out that unions do not go to the Mayor, the Lions Club or deal directly with business, they deal with the individuals employed by business and through them gain their results. The idea of one Closing Day had been brought up at meetings of the Lions Club for years but nothing had been done about it. Finally, it was decided to sponsor the movement and appoint a committee to learn what could be done. Cards were sent to the business and professional men asking them what day they would prefer to close, if at all, and stating that there was nothing compulsory about their closing. Twenty-six replies favored Wednesday, one preferred Tuesday and three did not want to close. Wednesday was then selected for general closing. Window display cards stating that "We will be closed Wednesday afternoon or all day" were sent to all business and professional men with a letter explaining their use and again stating that there was nothing compulsory about their closing. It seems that some of the few businessmen who do not favor closing are exerting every effort, by implication or otherwise, to stop the closing of the majority of the business houses. President Krueger said that if there was anything compulsory or if the unions were involved in the movement in the least way he would insist upon the Lions Club immediately dropping the whole matter."

"A resolution was approved urging that Mr. Livingston Osbourne, Director of the Illinois Department of Conservation, to assign Conservation Officers to form a posse in each area infested by the Red Fox to act in disposing of this destructive pest; to arrange for the State to provide a bounty of $5.00 to $10.00 for the next year or two and to have an expert trapper at the Lake Villa Conservation School to instruct local boys in fox hunting and trapping.

"The appeal of the Northern Limited, Inc., for support in obtaining a franchise from the Interstate Commerce Commission for Motor Coach Service from Chicago through Antioch and on to Waukegan was referred to the original Committee that worked with the American Coach Co., Inc., in obtaining the present service to Chicago and Waukegan."

"It was thought that the Village Board would like to have more support in its effort to arrange for another street and that nothing had been presented in concrete form that it could use. With this in mind, a committee was appointed to make an estimate of the value of the property and recommend a location for a suitable street. These recommendations would then be passed on by the Lions Club and presented to the Village Board. It was thought that a street in a convenient location would eliminate the necessity of considering the installation of parking meters."

Legion Cagers Win Two; Lose to Lake Forest

To Meet Highwood, Waukegan, Libertyville Next 3 Weeks

The Antioch Legion basketball team lost the first game this season to a strong Lake Forest team last Tuesday, January 29, at Lake Forest. Coach Krizan, expressed himself as being well pleased both with the showing made by the players in the game and the large number of players and rooters who made the trip for the game.

The locals wound up on the low end of a 47 to 46 score, which was considered a very good showing, considering that it was the second game of the season for the home team.

In the second tangle of the week the team met Lake Villa and Elia township in a double-header at the Antioch gymnasium Wednesday night. The first game, which was with the Lake Villa cagers, resulted in a win for the Antioch boys and the strong Elia team wound up with the locals on top 43 to 20.

More than 200 persons were on hand to see the games, and backers of the new team said that the response to the new program was much better than they had expected.

Games scheduled for the next few playing dates will include a double-header with Highwood as opponents on Wednesday, February 6; two games on Feb. 13 with Station KSJK of Waukegan, and a game with the Libertyville Legion on February 20. All these games will be played at the Antioch High School gymnasium.

Ed Frazer, athletic officer of the Legion post, sponsors of the team, reports that new suits for the players will be here in time for the next game.

The services of Oliver Hughes and Eugene Sheehan have been secured as referees for the games.

Butter, The Bellwether

Butter has disappeared from the market, and there is no doubt in the public mind as to why it has disappeared. Price ceilings have stopped its production. Shortages have occurred for similar reasons in countless lines during the past few years, but always the true facts were clouded in controversy. When retailers sought correction of ceiling prices that blocked production and distribution, it has been easy for the OPA to insinuate that they were callously encouraging inflation by insisting on exorbitant profits. At last an example is before the people, about which there is no question.

It would be silly for the OPA to accuse all the farmers in the country of being profiteers—that won't get better. Neither will a pretty looking price tag. And yet the OPA Administrator calmly states that "OPA is vigorously opposed to any price increase for butter. You can make that as strong as you like."

Apparently as far as OPA is concerned—and many retailers have suspected it for a long time—price statistics are more important than production. In the case of butter, the people are supposed to cheer because the "line" has been held on butter so successfully that there is no butter. The OPA might as well tell consumers to go butter their bread with a price ceiling!

As long as the country continues to live under a system of rigid economic control, it cannot expect maximum production and distribution. Shortages and inflation will increase, retailers and manufacturers will be powerless to stem rising costs, and the vicious circle of privation will grow tighter and tighter.

So This Is Peace

There is something frightening in the let-down that has followed the war. It runs deeper than mere relaxation of weary people after years of strain.

Our military disintegration, the mass demonstrations of American troops in foreign lands, the lawlessness and strikes at home—they all add up to an abdication of individual responsibility that can mean the destruction of democratic government in the United States.

Referring to the present state of collapse in the Armed Forces, the New York Times says: "Peace apparently has brought a release from the feeling of individual responsibility that showed itself during the war, at home as well as on the battle fronts—the feeling that what each was doing, even if it was only playing a small role, was a part of the whole national and international effort. Now each apparently is willing to let the other do it. Each parent is willing to let some other parent's son stay overseas if only he can get his own son back. Every possible influence is brought, every possible string is pulled, to secure preferred treatment. A recent report from a European command said that two officers were kept busy doing nothing else but running down inquiries from just one senator as to the status of the sons of his constituents."

Part of the fault for our scuttle and run attitude lies with the policy of the government which sold millions of people to the idea that war was an investment rather than an expense. Were not war bonds sold on that basis? And now instead of selling into the harness to pay those expenses, we are sitting back on our laurels, waiting to collect on our "investment."

Turnip Greens

Experiments show that turnip grown on soils rich in organic matter are high in iron and are most valuable in furnishing dietary iron. Too, turnip greens grown in the spring generally contain more iron than those grown in the fall. The iron content in turnip greens decreases with the application of nitrogen fertilizer although such applications increase the yields of the greens.

Army Engineers

In western China, army engineers supervised the building of bases for B-29 bombers. Between January 24 and April 24 a force of Chinese farmers numbering 430,000 at its peak worked with hands, hoes and baskets, completing a project described as the most massive Chinese construction job since the Great Wall of China. On Saipan air force engineers in five months completed coral-rock runways from which B-29s in November began frequent attacks on Japanese cities.

American Indigo
Indigo, of which 8,500,000 pounds had been imported in 1914, depends on aniline as one of its raw materials. Indigo appeared on the market in 1917 and the following year its production rose to 3,000,000 pounds. It should be noted that progress in the manufacture became so pronounced that in a few years American indigo displaced the foreign material to a large extent in the Orient.

Induct Illiterates
About 150,000 illiterates were inducted into the army and 50,000 into the navy, marine corps and coast guard from June 1, 1943 to June 1, 1944, in addition to many inducted earlier.

Bad Habit

Teach your family not to leave the laundry hamper, waste baskets, brooms and the like on stairs. Do not allow children to play on stairs.

Children's Bedding

Check the children's bedding regularly during the year to make sure it's in good condition. Restful sleep is a basic necessity in building healthy young bodies and alert minds.

Important Crop

Sunflowers, which only a few years ago had only incidental consideration from farmers and gardeners, have become an important factor in the production of drying oil for paints and other purposes. In Argentina, the 1943-44 planting is estimated at 3,904,860 acres—an increase of 99.5 per cent over last year's area, while total production of sunflower seed in Canada is estimated at 17,900,000 pounds.

Mineral Sources

Vegetables that are good sources of calcium, phosphorus and iron are the legumes and the green leaves such as beet and dandelion greens and chard, mustard and spinach. Cauliflower supplies both calcium and phosphorus; cabbage, carrots, and celery, and snapbeans are rich in calcium; corn, potatoes and pumpkin furnish good amounts of phosphorus. Include these vegetables in your diet for mineral content, but see to it that preparation and cooking methods are such that the maximum amount of mineral is retained.

Puppy Love

By DON JESSEE

McClure Syndicate, WNU Features

TOMMY walked past the jewelry store for the fourth time. The glittering display seemed to taunt him. Doggone it, he thought, I've got to do something. Tomorrow is Alice Dodd's birthday and I haven't enough money for a present. At least not enough to get her something as expensive as Chuck Hilton will.

A deep kindly voice behind him interrupted his thoughts. "Thinking of getting married, Tommy?" The boy looked up at Mr. Scofield, the farmer Tommy worked for every summer vacation. "Oh, hello, Mr. Scofield. No, I'm just window-shopping for a birthday present, that's all."

"I see," said the big ruddy man. "Something for the girl friend. That's a little too much for you, isn't it?"

Tommy's gaze dropped to the sidewalk. "I wasn't going to buy it. I haven't enough money. You see, Mr. Scofield, Alice Dodd's birthday is tomorrow and I just got to give her something as good as Chuck Hilton is going to get."

The man smiled. "Your rival, eh? What is he giving her?"

Tommy made a face. "Perfume."

He said the word with disgust. Mr. Scofield shook his head. "That's not a very good gift for a young girl like Alice. There are many things much more suitable. Books, handkerchiefs, a box of candy."

"Now, I thought of all those things. It's got to be something that really knocks her eyes out. You know what I mean, Mr. Scofield?"

His friend gave him an understanding look. "I think I do, Tommy. Let's go over to Hank's Drug store and have a soda. On me, of course. Then maybe we can figure out what to give Alice. How does that sound?"

The boy's eyes lighted up. "Gee, that sounds swell."

"Come on, then. I have an idea I can help you select a present to 'knock her eyes out!'"

The following afternoon Tommy stood at Alice Dodd's front door with a cloth-covered box under his arm. Presently he heard footsteps in answer to his knock. The door opened and a pretty blond girl greeted him. "Hello, Tommy."

"Hello, Alice. I brought you a-a," his voice trailed away. His eyes caught the glint of something silvery about her neck. "Where did you get that locket?" It was the same one he had seen in the jeweler's window.

Alice held it toward him. "Chuck gave it to me for my birthday. He said he was going to get perfume at first, but he changed his mind at the last moment. It's pretty, isn't it?"

Tommy sighed with relief. "Yeah, it's pretty, all right. Only I brought you something you'll like a lot better."

Her blue eyes looked expectantly at the box. "What is it, Tommy?" He grinned teasingly. "Well, you remember when we were walking past Winter's Pet store and you stopped to look at the little puppies in the window? You said how much you'd like to have one, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Well," he beamed, "you've got one here." With that he pulled the cloth from the box and revealed a tiny brown puppy with big soft eyes busily scratching himself.

Alice gave a little squeal of delight and took the dog into her arms. "Oh, Tommy, he's darling! Thank you. Thank you so much!" Suddenly she looked at him wide-eyed. "Tommy," she gasped, "those puppies at Winter's cost 25 dollars apiece!"

Tommy looked nonchalant. "That's right."

"But 25 dollars—"

"Can't a fellow spend his last cent on his girl if he wants to?"

An hour later he emerged from the house more satisfied than before. She liked the puppy better than any of her other presents, including Chuck's! And she thought he paid 25 dollars for it at Winter's!

He laughed. "Well, let her think it. I didn't lie to her. Just because Mr. Scofield's spaniel had a litter and he let me have one for $1.60, if I promised to work on his farm again this summer isn't telling lies, is it?"

Foreign Affairs Expert Will Speak To Woman's Club

Thomas Que Harrison will speak on the subject "America's Stake In The Pacific," at a meeting of the Antioch Woman's club to be held Monday evening, Feb. 4, at the Roundup. Harrison, a matured student of foreign affairs and of social problems, will be remembered by many as the young youth leader who, after the last war, traveled for ten years throughout the world organizing the youth of many lands. It was he who planned the first World Youth Conference for Peace, held in 1928 in Holland. His eloquence and convincing powers of speech won him a unique hearing from such distinguished American audiences as Town Hall in New York and Ford Hall Forum in Boston. Mr. Harrison returns to the lecture platform to speak on the situation in the far East from a background of intimate knowledge of Japan, China, Korea, Manchuria, and India, as well as to speak on the important subjects of peace and world organization.

Library News

(By Marion Rigby, Librarian)
Anyia Seton, author of "Dragonwyck," has written "The Turquoise," a new novel about a beautiful and gifted woman. Santa Fe Cameron was named for the place of her birth, which she left for the piratical, opulent, gas lit New York of the seventies, where her talents and beauty lifted her to high places.

"Those Other People," by Mary King O'Donnell, is an unusual novel and was chosen by the Literary Guild as its February selection. The scene is New Orleans and all the action takes place in one day—action that has the effect of a photographer's montage yet interlocks into an ironic and fascinating pattern.

"American Labor Unions, What They Are and How They Work" is the full title of the book by Florence Peterson of the U. S. Dept. of Labor. This book will appeal to everyone who is curious about the meaning and place of "the labor movement" and will assist those who have dealings with organized labor.

Paul V. Harper has edited the memories of his brother, Samuel N. Harper, and published them in a book called "The Russia I Believe In." For nearly forty years Samuel Harper made extended visits to Russia, studying Russia's institutions, making friends with the people, watching the political upheavals of the country, and keeping a record of what he observed. His memories have the vitality of journalism and a deep faith in Russia's future.

At an impressive double ring ceremony Miss Charlotte Nash was married to Sgt. Elson Schulz on Saturday afternoon at St. Johns Evangelical Lutheran church at Slades Corners. Rev. A. Lorenz, pastor heard the nuptial vows.

Given in marriage by Mr. Elmer Hunter, the bride was attended by Miss Mabel Lou Hunter. The bride was lovely in her light blue suit with matching accessories, her flowers were white roses. She carried a prayer book Mr. Schulz had had with him overseas. Her attendant wore coral with a corsage of white carnations.

Sgt. Schulz was attended by his cousin Glenn Steffen, Janet Lee Madans, acted as flower girl carrying a basket of sweet peas. Ushers were Kenneth Rosenhauer and Reuben Schuette.

Preceding the ceremony Willis Schaal sang "I Love You Truly." He was accompanied by the piano by Miss Marian Katka. Following the ceremony a reception for sixty guests was held at the Hunter home. The bride is a graduate of Antioch Township high school and has made her home with the Hunters' for the past seven years. The groom recently received his discharge from the U. S. Army after serving for the past four years. The couple left on an extended honeymoon trip.

Miss Felter Entertains At Dinner - Theatre Party

Miss Joan Felter was hostess to twenty-two of her friends at a party Saturday. A combination ice skating and tobogganing party was originally planned to entertain the guests, but due to severe weather conditions, the group attended a movie in Waukegan, returning to enjoy a midnight dinner and dancing party at the Felter home, 492 Lake Street, Antioch. The guests were all of Antioch with the exception of Edwin R. Shutt of Gary, Ind., and Gene Coil of Chicago.

Labor Saving Short- Cuts Developed By Farmers To Be Shown

"Prospects for a continuing farm labor shortage through 1946 make it especially important that the farmer use every available shortcut which will help in getting his work done. We urge every farmer in Lake County, who has built and used a labor-saving device or who has developed an improved method for some phase of farm work, to exhibit those ideas at the farm and home show to be held on February 22 in the Grayslake Grade School Auditorium at Grayslake," says R. T. Nicholas, Lake County Farm Adviser.

"Last year after the labor-saving shows were held in this county and other counties many farmers remarked that they were using gadgets which they had made or designed, but hesitated to enter them in the show because of their home made appearance," he continued. "We earnestly hope that none of these will be left at home this year."

"It's the idea that counts. It isn't necessary for the exhibits to be fancy in any way. Prizes will be awarded to the winners in each of several entry classes, and the exhibits will further good old cooperative spirit of helping your neighbors, a cooperative spirit which has helped to bring us through many labor emergencies during the war."

Angler Fish

The angler fish can swallow fish bigger than itself because of its "elastic" stomach. This remarkable fish gets its name from a long movable thread projecting from its head which it uses as a lure to attract its prey. The angler fish is able to walk along the bottom of the sea on specially formed fins.

American Indian

Origin of the American Indian has long been a major ethnological problem. Most authorities agree that they were Mongolians, coming here from Asia by way of the Bering Strait. Other anthropologists, however, claim that the American Indian originated in Malaya. In 1924, when a law was passed providing that all non-citizen Indians born within the territorial limits of the United States were thereby declared citizens of the United States, they were given the right to vote.

Penicillin Therapy

The results of preliminary clinical trials in gonorrhea and in pneumonia suggest that oral penicillin therapy is feasible in these infections.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 27, was:

"TRUTH"

The Golden Text was:
"The Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth dureth to all generations" (Ps. 100: 5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth. . . . Because I will publish the name of the Lord; ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect; for all his ways are judgment; a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he. . . . The works of his hands are verily and judgment; all his commandments are sure. They stand fast for ever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightness." (Deut. 32: 1, 3, 4; Ps. 111: 7, 8).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Mortals try to believe without understanding Truth; yet God is Truth. . . . To grasp the reality and order of being in its Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is. Spirit, Life, Truth, Love, combine as one—and are the Scriptural names for God. All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. . . . We must not seek the immutable and immortal through the finite, mutable, and mortal, and so depend upon belief instead of demonstration, for this is fatal to a knowledge of Science. The understanding of Truth gives full faith in Truth, and spiritual understanding is better than all burnt offerings." (pp. 312, 276, 286).

Death Precedes Birth
Of His Son by a Day
SOMERSET, PA. — Twenty-four hours after receiving word from the navy department that her husband, Lt. Theodore Harold Fisher had been killed when he fell from a plane, Mrs. Fisher gave birth to her first child, a son. Lieutenant Fisher was killed at Glenview (Ill.) naval air training station.

Hot Chow Welcome To Tired Marines

Leathernecks Put in Busy Day in Iwo Battle.

IWO ISLAND. — The black dirt of Iwo island was on the decks of this LST the other morning. It was dragged in by thousands of rain-drenched, unshaven and dog-tired U. S. marines.

Since before noon they have been moving along a galley line, carrying trays of steak or hot spaghetti and gravy, cornbread and cups of coffee.

The battle of Iwo is only a few hundred yards away. The ship lies in the brightness of star shells overhead.

Beneath the ship's bow explosive flashes come from a marine artillery position. A short time ago a man was hit there by sniper fire.

The marines are still coming out of the blackness of Iwo. You hear comments like:

"This is the first hot chow I've had since D-Day," and, "Boy, what a meal!"

The coastguardsmen are pulling dry clothes from their lockers.

Tired men are lying in bunks vacated by coastguardsmen.

"I figure I can do without the sleep," a gunner's mate said.

The wounded are here, too. They lie under blankets in every available place—on mess tables in the crew's quarters, and in the wardroom—tended by the ship's doctor.

"My buddy next to me was hit," one marine says.

"He said to me, 'I think I'm hit.' He was, I said, 'You're darned right you are.'"

"He told me: 'Isn't this a heck of a way to make a living!'"

Below, on the tank deck, sweating men are loading howitzer shells into the amtracs which can make the grade in Iwo's loose dirt. With each load go ration cans of hot coffee and sandwiches for the men at the guns.

Disease Rates Spurt in Europe; Fear Epidemics

WASHINGTON. — Disease rates are so rampant in wartime Europe that it is feared epidemics may occur far eclipsing those after the First World war.

"In several ways the outlook is darker than in 1918," said a report issued by the Epidemiological Information service of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

Housing and sanitation facilities promise to be far worse with greater floating populations, the study pointed out.

Typhus was cited as the most direct threat. In Germany alone, where typhus formerly was unknown, the report said there were more than 5,000 cases in 1943.

"Apart from the menace of typhus," the report said, "the most significant fact of the epidemic situation is that the incidence of all the common infectious diseases has doubled or tripled in that part of Europe for which statistics are available."

Stolen Gas Stamps Worth 7 Million Gallons Found

CHICAGO. — Recovery of gas coupons worth more than 7,000,000 gallons from apartments of two men was reported by Police Capt. Ray Crane, who said the coupons were part of the loot which the office of price administration reported stolen from its warehouse recently.

Captain Crane said coupons good for 3,650,000 gallons were found in the bottom of a wardrobe trunk in one apartment and that an additional quantity, worth 3,600,000 gallons, was recovered in a second apartment.

Richard Greenberg, executive officer of the regional OPA office, said a preliminary audit shows recovery of nearly all of the coupons stolen, and that a complete audit of stamps recovered will be completed within three or four days.

Burning Chow Reminds Him of Wife's Cooking

WITH THE MARINES. — Under a blazing tropical sun on an island in the Pacific, three marines idly watched their cans of "C" rations heating over a small fire, writes Sgt. Charles B. Cunningham, a USMC combat correspondent to the "Leatherneck" magazine.

Two of the men, satisfied with the temperature of their food, gingerly drew the cans from the blaze. The third continued to lie propped on one elbow, just looking at the fire.

"Hey," said one of his buddies, "your chow is burning."

"I know," he replied languidly. "I'm letting it burn just a little so it will remind me of my wife's cooking."

Little Giant

By K. W. BROOKS

McClure Syndicate.
WNU Features.

WILBUR was granted "leave to prevent severe hardship on the home front" so he was on hand to help Helen move. She had him try the secondhand furniture in different places until it ended up where it started. She said, "Now, if I just had an ironing board, I'd be all set."

Wilbur shook his two hundred twenty pounds out of a chair, put down the sandwich he was eating and said, "I'll go in town and get you one, honey. Just fix me another peanut butter sandwich and I'm off like a flash."

Helen had to laugh. She couldn't imagine him "off like a flash," or hurrying for anything. But she loved him and counted herself lucky to have a soldier husband, she could be sure.

Wilbur ate the second peanut butter sandwich, a jelly sandwich and three peaches. Then, giving his wife a good-natured two-years-married peck, he set out.

In the department store he found two models. Both were plainly labeled "All Wood and Metal Construction." They looked like paper to Wilbur, but a tired small clerk was sitting on the square end of one. She yawned and asked, "You being waited on?"

Wilbur said, "Just looking," and continued his inspection.

The one the girl sat on was called, "Little Giant, Streamlined." The label pictured six husky men standing on it and looking pretty embarrassed, too, Wilbur thought. It was all covered with paper grained like wood.

Wilbur said to the girl, "I'll take it," indicating the Little Giant.

She opened her sales pad. "Name and address?"

"I'm going to take it," Wilbur countered.

"Oh!" The girl looked startled. "I don't know. We can deliver it the first of the week."

"But you don't have to get it from the warehouse. I'll take this."

"That's just a floor sample," she shrugged.

"Go ask your boss!" Wilbur demanded.

"Mr. Duvany says it'll cost more," the girl said when she sauntered back.

"How much?"

"Twelve-fifty. We'd have to hire a man three hours to build another sample."

Helen wanted an ironing board, Wilbur reflected. He had no choice. He shelled out the money, tucked the Little Giant under his arm, a considerable expense protruding fore and aft, and started home. He was getting hungry again. He ducked into the dime store for gumdrops. A boy reached for one of the braces. Wilbur swerved to evade him. The Little Giant patted a young woman's shoulder. A hand grasped Wilbur's free arm and a voice shrilled, "Don't you make passes at me, you G.I. wolf!"

Wilbur swung to meet the challenge. The swing swept the Little Giant out in back, howling over a buxom woman. "I am very sorry, madam," Wilbur apologized.

It was like a Mack Sennett comedy until the store manager came and conveyed Wilbur to the door, gundropless. In a drugstore Wilbur had better luck. He got candy and succumbed to an ad for "fresh peach soda." While sipping it, the Little Giant fell flat on the floor, making a frightening smack. The prescription man helped Wilbur out.

Between the bus stop and home the Little Giant got very wet in a heavy sudden shower, which stopped as Wilbur mounted the steps. Helen was quite pleased when Wilbur showed her the picture of the six men on it.

Wilbur set it up. It shook some, and was warped, but Helen didn't mind. The minute her back was turned Wilbur sat on it. The whole thing collapsed like a cereal box and Wilbur sat on the floor with a wind-dow-rattling impact. Helen came running. "Wilbur, honey! You're hurt! And you've broken the ironing board!"

"I didn't break it. It collapsed!"

"Oh, dear. How much did it cost?"

"Twelve-fifty," Wilbur said before he thought.

"Twelve-fifty!" Helen was agast. "An ironing board!"

"Only one they had," Wilbur explained. "And the girl was sitting on it. It's a Little Giant, Streamlined."

"It's nothing but paper," Helen protested.

"I'll take it back. The label says all wood and metal."

Helen laughed. "No, Wilbur, you can't. It's all busted. That's why it cost so much. It's a mock-up. A model. Lots of stores use them. Wood and metal are critical materials. But get up and I'll fix you a sandwich. You must be hungry."

"I am," Wilbur admitted, grinning.

Camel Humps

Caravan camels must be selected carefully, as not all are fit for long marches. Before departing, natives feed date-stones to camels, believing this will make their humps strong and firm. The hump is a reservoir of strength from which the camel exists when food is not available. A small, flabby hump is a sign of fatigue and an unhealthy condition.

Sticks in Jail Bars

Attempting to Escape
RUSSELL, KANS. — Prospects didn't look good to one Russell county prisoner when he was confined to close quarters during an attempt to break jail.

His "close confinement" was his own fault, though, authorities said. He was wedged in a nine-inch opening so tight that it took a blow-torch to free him.

Yanks Not Fooled By German Trick

American Industry Quickly Solves Difficulty.

WASHINGTON. — Maybe the Germans never will learn about American industry. During their retreat from France and Belgium, they left behind their strategic telephone system, intact except for one thing: They removed all the vacuum tubes.

Apparently that looked safe to them. The tube was made by Siemens Halske, and was unlike any other tube in the world.

The Germans didn't think they left any models behind. All the Americans had to go on was a series of holes for the tube prongs and even the prong holes didn't fit any other tube.

Signal corps men got hold of one tube. An unofficial story is that it was found in a package that a German soldier had wrapped for private use and abandoned in the haste of retreat.

The tube was flown to the United States and the office of scientific research and development assigned the job of designing an American-made replacement to the Bell laboratories.

Three days later sample tubes were on their way to Europe. Three weeks later enough had been shipped to put the German telephone system back in operation.

The job involved making some parts never before made in this country and adapting other parts already made to fit the German tube. The Bell laboratories designed the replacement the same evening the first tube was received. The Western Electric Tube company and the Westinghouse company did the manufacturing.

Dr. Vannevar Bush, director of the office of scientific research and development, sent the laboratories this message:

"Your part in the spectacular job accomplished under our contract in providing the tube replacements represents a record-breaking performance and merits the sincere praise and thanks of this organization and those who will use the equipment."

Big George Remains as War Horse to the End

KANSAS CITY. — A big bay gelding named George who served with the cavalry for 14 years remained a war horse to the end.

His master, Col. Thomas Tipton Thornburgh, a West Point graduate, rode him on more than 1,000 miles of maneuvers over the country.

But Colonel Thornburgh was killed in action last year, and George was sent to a farm to spend his last years.

A group of cavalrymen appeared in the field adjoining George's pasture the other day. One of the men gave a sharp command to the troops.

George heard it — an almost forgotten sound. He reared and headed directly for the men. A high wire fence separated them and watchers saw he meant to jump it.

But George didn't quite reach the fence.

Suddenly he staggered and fell.

He died of a heart attack while obeying his last command.

Seconds Differ About Insult, Duel Canceled

BUENOS AIRES. — Failure of their seconds to agree on the point at issue resulted in the calling off recently of a duel between Cesar Ameghino, 73-year-old Argentina finance minister and acting foreign minister, and Matias Rodriguez, a young army colonel.

Rodriguez had charged that Ameghino had trafficked as a lawyer on his influence as a cabinet member.

The colonel's second contended that Rodriguez made the statement in an official capacity, as chairman of a committee investigating irregularities of past administrations, and that it could not be considered a personal insult. Ameghino's seconds argued that the minister's name nevertheless was injured.

Owner of Seized House Stabs American Soldier

WITH THE AMERICAN 90TH DIVISION IN GERMANY. — A 70-year-old German, enraged by the requisitioning of his home at Oppenhause, stabbed an American soldier in the chest recently.

The soldier, a switchboard operator, is in a serious condition. The German, Anton Kopp, is being held for trial.

Capt. Zinn B. Garrett of Dallas, Texas, military government officer of the division, said that the town mayor had told him that the stabbing was "the act of a deranged man."

Coldest Regions

The North pole is not the coldest place in the Arctic circle, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. For more than a quarter of a century, Europeans have lived in the coldest Arctic regions, which are the Yukon basin in Alaska, the Yukon Territory in Canada and the Siberian province of Yakutsk. Temperatures of 90 below zero have been recorded in Yakutsk.

Red Square

Red square in Moscow was long the place of public executions. It became the great trade center, a market or bazaar in the heart of European Russia, to which came Russian merchants over the several roads that converge on Moscow, and by the river Moskva. The waters of this stream flow along one side of the Kremlin and reach the Volga through the Oka river.

Freeze-Drying

The new method of drying fruits and vegetables by the "freeze-drying" process was learned from the chemists who are preserving blood plasma and penicillin.

Child's Shoe

A child's shoe should be an inch longer than his foot, heels and counters should fit snugly and arches give support.

Muscadine Jam

For muscadine jam, wash grapes, slip skins and simmer them in a very little water until just tender. Heat pulp separately to loosen seeds, then put through a colander. Combine pulp and skins and measure. Add 1 cup sugar to each 2 cups grape mixture. Add a pinch of salt. Boil briskly until thick. Pack in Re-named No. 2 tin cans while boiling hot. Process in boiling hot water bath for 10 minutes. Plunge in cold water and cool quickly.

Scientific Clue

It is a primary fact of science that oftentimes the only clue which a scientist needs to solve even the most difficult problem is the definite knowledge that some other scientist has solved it.

Corn Drying

A 40-acre corn field yielding 70 bushels per acre would have to lose 7,000 gallons of water as the corn dries from maturity to 20 per cent moisture.

Luck of Larsen

By BOB SINGLETON
McClure Syndicate.
WNU Features.

"LUCKY" LARSEN sat in the cockpit of his party boat, gazing morosely at the waters of the inlet as they shimmered in the sunset. "Snowball!" he suddenly roared. The coal black head of his mate appeared from the galley. "Snowball, I was sittin' here thinkin' why they call you 'Snowball'." "All you got to do is look at me, and you knows right away, Mister Lucky," Snowball grinned. "That's just what I was cogitatin'. They call you Snowball for the same reason that they call me Lucky." "Yassir, Mister Lucky, I sure reckon you got somethin' there all right. Just today di'n' we sit right between Cap'n Judy and Cap'n Frank. Cap'n Judy caught 80 weaks, Cap'n Frank hauled in 90, and we got 15."

"Darn Captain Judy and Captain Frank," Lucky glanced at the remaining can of chum. "We'll be laughin' at them come this time tomorrow. Come on, now, take the lead out of your pants and get my supper up here; the tide will be comin' in soon."

Snowball went below without comment and busied himself with the evening meal. He knew from sad experience that it would do no good to question Lucky further, but he still couldn't figure out why he was sitting in the cockpit throwing occasional handfuls of chum overboard. Those shrills would be perfectly good for Mr. Burke's fishing party booked for the next day, and there must have been at least five dollars' worth left.

Another roar from Lucky: "Snowball, start her up!"

"Doan' you wan' to eat? Supper's mos' ready, Mister Lucky," Snowball called.

"Start her up, supper will have to wait." As the twin motors roared their protest, Lucky gave orders. "Go as slow as you can and still hold steerage. Head for Governor's Cove."

Under Snowball's expert guidance the 50-foot "Paylin" barely crept the two miles. Lucky kept his place in the stern, still throwing out chum at regular intervals. In about an hour they anchored and ate supper.

"I sure doan' know what you're doin', Mister Lucky, but I suppose you do," Snowball ventured. "Why you-all jes' set there and throw chum away is mor'n I can figger out."

Lucky grinned. "You'll be a-seem' tomorrow mornin'. But if you go tellin' what you've seen tonight I'll wring your neck." With that he dumped the remaining bait overboard. Snowball gasped.

"Doan' you worry, Mister Lucky, I ain't seen nothin'. I remember what you told me to tell—the port motor blowed a gasket and we had to lay out to fix it."

"That's right, and don't you forget. We can head in now. Be aboard at five, we're sailin' early."

"I'll be there, doan' fret," Snowball started getting things shipshape as Lucky took the wheel. He hummed to himself—he'd be in in time to see Mandy after all.

Mr. Burke and his party were on time in the morning, and the Paylin cast off promptly at 5:30, a good half-hour before the other boats. Lucky headed directly for Governor's Cove instead of the inlet where the weaks always lay, and where the other boats would go.

"What's the matter, Larsen, why not the inlet?" Mr. Burke asked as they dropped anchor in the cove. Snowball was already starting the chum over.

"You want weaks, don't you, Mr. Burke?" Lucky answered. "Well, I aim to get you some." He said a fervent prayer under his breath.

"O. K., if you produce," Burke said.

The broad stern of the Paylin accommodated four lines, and they were all over in a few moments. Sure enough, the weaks were biting; they were getting strikes faster than Snowball could haul them in. The light reels and the flexible rods of the weakfish tackle were singing and bending gaily. Suddenly something hit Burke's hook like a sledge hammer. "All lines in!" Lucky called.

The fishermen started reeling in as fast as they could to give Mr. Burke free play, but two more lines were hit before reaching the boat. All three rods were bent practically double, all three reels were smoking. Before Lucky could cut the lines all three rods had been pulled out of the men's hands and were heading out to sea.

"What the devil was that?" Mr. Burke managed to ask.

"What the devil was that, he asks!" Lucky raved. "Are you fishermen or runaways from the Old Ladies' Home? Can't you even hold an oversized weakfish?" He watched a hundred dollars' worth of fishing tackle disappear.

He never did tell the answer, which he knew all too well. The chum that he had put out the night before to lure the weaks from the inlet to the cove had also lured a school of large bonitos which had been feeding just beyond the breakwater.

"Yassir, Mister Lucky, you sure have lived up to your name again," Snowball said, starting the motors to head for the inlet.

NINE COUPLES ENJOY SLEIGH RIDE PARTY

Leaving dull cares behind them nine Antioch couples greatly enjoyed a sleigh ride party Monday night, to Mr. and Mrs. John Nixon's Bluff Lake home, five miles southwest of town, where Mr. and Mrs. Fred Loof had prepared hot coffee and wieners.

After spending hours playing old fashioned school games and music, the crowd departed for home on the big sled behind Jake Drom's trusty team of greys. The attempt to stage a comeback to the happy days of youth was not so pathetic as it proved, as it proved to be entertaining. Some one even started the song "School Days."

"When we were a couple of kids," but to make a long story short, the crowd went for a good time and they had it. Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Krah, Mr. and Mrs. John Horan; Mr. and Mrs. S. Boyer Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gaston, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Macek, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Nixon, and Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Watson.

Killing the "Outlet Octopus"

Our hero has the right idea . . . the "Outlet Octopus" has to go . . . but the solution isn't the axe—it's adequate wiring.

Maybe yours is still just a baby Octopus . . . but it'll grow unless your wiring is adequate. Not only are "double plugs on double plugs" unsightly but they are also dangerous. Think of those little wires behind the plug, they just aren't built to carry such a load.

Avoid slow heating and inefficiently operating appliances. Adequate wiring means no more dimming lights . . . no more "Outlet Octopuses." You'll have plenty of convenience outlets . . . and no more "steps in the dark"—multiple switches will light your way ahead.

* * * * *

In your present or future home, plan to have adequate wiring so your new electric appliances will serve you better. Talk over adequate wiring with us or your electrical contractor today.

Waffle Grids

Turn current off just before the last waffle has finished baking. Leave the cover raised until the iron cools; this prevents burned grids. Before it cools, whisk the grids lightly with paper toweling or a pastry brush—but don't rub off the thin film of fat or the next waffles will stick. If waffle particles stick, remove with a soft wire brush. Never wash the grids.

Safe Illumination

Where illumination is necessary in the vicinity of the place where gas or inflammable liquids are used or handled, only flashlights in good repair or electric light extension cords and lamp guards of approved type should be used. No lights of any kind should be lowered into a tank or container for the purpose of measuring the contents.

Potato Tax
The Maine potato tax, the state's potato growers say, has proved its worth. Inaugurated several years ago, the tax is at the rate of one cent per barrel on all potatoes sold for commercial purposes in the state. Proceeds are used to advertise Maine potatoes, and to carry on research work in connection with growing and marketing potatoes.

Decayed Teeth
Decayed teeth and diseased gums often become the portal for the entrance of disease-producing microbes into the body. From the decaying surface of a tooth cavity, bacteria gain access to the jaw, where they may set up a root abscess. Sometimes infections are found upon the roots of otherwise sound teeth, presumably the result of diseased gums.
